

Yennie Rautenberg-Loya is a purpose-driven leadership coach and executive trainer committed to empower and develop leaders to flourish and leave their unique and positive mark in the world. She enables teams and individuals to build work environments where people are honored, experience a sense of belonging and live great lives.

As a result of partnering with Yennie, her customers have consistently expressed an increase in self-confidence, stronger communications and relationship building skills, as well as a sounder executive presence, performance and balanced work-life-wellbeing integration.

Originally from Mexico City, she is a bilingual (Spanish/English) and multicultural ICF-certified leadership coach with 25+ years of global experience in corporate and executive communications, and 15+ years delivering life and executive coaching and training programs to thousands of people. She has championed, participated and served as an ally of multiple inclusion and diversity initiatives, and collaborated with teams in 25+ countries.